Easily configure search details Besides being a general tool for monitoring your website and its performance, CuteRank can help you easily configure your search details. It's rather easy to manage items like search engine, search phrases, the period of time in which you want to look at your website, and region. The application even lets you try different keywords and see how your website performs according to them. Thus, in case you wish to see which keywords are the most popular, it's no problem, and you can chose to view the graphs on a monthly basis. Requires a website The application runs directly on your website, so you don't need to export any files from your server. In fact, if you want to check your website with another tool, CuteRank lets you choose from a list of most commonly used search engines. The results are displayed in a table, with the possibility to select the region to be displayed. It'll give you an overall view of your website's performance in terms of rank, traffic, and time. Read More » Moz Pro X is the best overall SEO Tools web site one can obtain which includes SEO as a necessary part and will CuteRank is an application designed to check your website's visits and potential to rank higher. The interface is the most conventional, though...Q: Can an Android application update itself without user interaction? I know that regular Android applications can't update themselves without user interaction. But what about an application which is packaged as a "self-updateable".apk file? If an app has its.apk file in an obscure location, but you can access it, can it download the update with that.apk file? I realize that we'd need to read the signatures of the new.apk file, but that would be in line with the normal update mechanism as well. A: Maybe it's not what you intended to ask, but the following can happen: The user clicks the notification bar, that the app creates for the update If the user updates the application, the updated.apk can be updated automatically To some extend, the update is similar to a regular update. With the latest tools (that are needed for this), it's quite possible to automate the update process, but I'm not aware of the developer / API, which would allow it. 1 of 6 View Caption Courtesy of BYU Photo BYU quarterback Taysom Hill celebrates after throwing a pass against Utah during the second half of an NCAA
