HyperMotion Technology is available to users in the game and is the first year of regular video-game use of motion capture technology. It allows users to take control of 20 different in-game players in FIFA 22. Each player comes with different skills, characteristics and different tactics. The program is being used in-game for the first time ever in a FIFA title. It is being used in a number of areas, including player tools, tutorials, training, match engine and marketing. The other big feature of FIFA 22 is that players now have a Club Pride rating, which allows them to earn pride points by committing actions with Club, Man of the Match or Man of the Match celebrations. When these celebrations are triggered, players will start to earn pride points as time passes. G4 Entertainment's ratings for Pro Evo soccer games for PlayStation 3 have been enhanced to provide easier, more concise and more specific readouts of a player's skill and durability. This game, in addition to featuring the highly-anticipated FIFA 22, will also feature EA SPORTS Ignite and EA SPORTS Freestyle Tricks, which, according to FIFA, "introduce a whole new way to create tricks and express your footballing personality to the world." "FIFA 22 is the culmination of all that's happened since the launch of FIFA 09," said Jurgen Blum, VP of EA Play. "It's got the most tuned, most tested, most balanced and, I think, the best looking game we've ever done. We're looking forward to hearing the thousands of stories of people playing FIFA for the first time with its new 'Club Pride' system, and seeing the first steps of the massive improvements to gameplay. We think fans will have a lot to say about what's on the way for FIFA and FIFA Mobile." Look for more previews of what's new in FIFA 22 in the coming weeks.]]> of Studio, FIFA 17 - Aaron Orts

What's new:

- FIFA 22 introduces 'HyperMotion Technology' which uses motion capture data collected from real-life footballers playing a complete, high-intensity football match. When the ball hits the back of the net, the match is complete and a special animation shows the various key moments of the match happening around the goal. As in previous years, players make the same types of movements at home, on the road, and during a match. Yet all these movements change when the situation is exactly the same but the "gravity" of the game changes based on the position of the match. For example, the running animations are more fluid and have more range of movement on the football field when the team is at home than they do during a match.
- This year, the player ratings are based off of three rating periods over the previous three seasons.
- You can select to speed up the build of your squad for a better result on the pitch.
- Active Restraint is an option to help improve how players respond to crosses and passes across the field.
- Matches are now played in two stages. The first stage lets the players warm up, while the second stage takes place when the full team has completed their warm-up. This second part of the game allows the AI to guide the team on the pitch.

FIFA is the world's number one soccer franchise, featuring the best footballers on the planet and a legion of loyal, passionate fans. Every year, players of all ages and abilities enjoy FIFA for the games that pioneered the soccer simulation genre on consoles. What's new in FIFA? In FIFA 22, we're delivering more clubs, more teams, more stadiums, more social experiences, and deeper player customization for the all-new FIFA Ultimate Team. You'll experience goal celebrations, all-new player models, and a renewed approach to player animation. Fans will love the brand new All-Stars roster - including some of the biggest names in soccer. With the latest features and gameplay enhancements, the new FIFA is everything you love about the game, and more. Game Features FIFA 22 brings you closer to the game than ever before with fundamental gameplay advancements that redefine gameplay, create more authentic moments, and further elevate the experience to new heights. New Moves, New Moves, New Moves - Every move in FIFA 22 has been redesigned, rebuilt, and rebuilt again. New skills in new layers, new timing, new intentions and hand positions. FIFA 22 also brings the core gameplay innovations and enhancements found in FIFA 17 to the ball and to passing in the new Pro Practice Mode. These include: Tons of New Player Moves. The New SBM Layer, which allows players to make more precise passes, close passes, lobs, and foiled crosses. New Press and Attempt Flaps - Once again, FIFA is expanding on the concept of press and its intended use, making it more effective in real games. Players will now be able to perform presses to attempt a ground clearance, lob the ball, clear the ball, run at the defense, or steal the ball. Players will now be able to perform presses to attempt a ground clearance, lob the ball, clear the ball, run at the defense, or steal the ball. New Crossing - In FIFA 17, the cross was effective and could be performed at speeds higher than the traditional speed of a pass, but has now been significantly slowed down to make it less effective and more practical for players. Players can now cross with the speed and accuracy they would be comfortable with in real games, but to improve the craft of crossing, all the passes that result in a cross will come in at slower speeds. In addition, players will now have to commit to the run, and will not be able to cancel out
